

Patriots' Day

The Untold Story of the Oklahoma City Bombing

By JD CASH

Patriots' Day is the well documented expose' of the chilling events surrounding the Oklahoma City bombing and the innocent victims caught in the crossfire of a dirty and dangerous war that is being waged daily between federal law-enforcement and the terrorists they hunt. This non-fiction account reveals the nightmare reality of an escalating battle that reaches toward Armageddon as entire cities and their populations become pawns in a high-stakes game to stop what many fear is an inevitable showdown where thousands, maybe tens of thousands of innocent Americans could perish.

The story emerges from the ashes of a bombed-out federal building and reveals an audacious plan by federal law enforcement that tragically fails to prevent the worst mass-murder of our time. Drawn from painstaking research and documented with never before published government files and independently obtained photographs, Patriots' Day chronicles the author's relentless crusade across the US and Europe -- searching for the truth about the Oklahoma City bombing and those responsible for it.

Employing hidden recording devices and a cleverly constructed "cover," JD Cash, and members of an Oklahoma City family that lost two baby's in the bombing, discover not only the people responsible for the massacre at the Alfred P. Murrah Building -- they also find themselves caught in the middle of a desperate conflict that destroys one truth-seekers life and nearly kills the author when an assassination attempt fails.

Patriots' Day is a trip deep inside the "White Power Movement" where you'll discover who Timothy McVeigh really was -- and what his motives really were. And once revealed, McVeigh's sympathies lead you directly to his comrades in the exclusive and deadly, "Silent Brotherhood." Here, you'll be face-to-face with a secret society bent on pushing America into a race war and mass-genocide. Led by a cabal of former high ranking military officers and religious "kooks," these madmen worship Adolf Hitler and embrace a form of religion that demonizes all non-whites and non-Christians. Their goal -- a global holocaust with unimaginable consequences and no weapon, not even nuclear, is beyond their reach.

While tracking the truth about what happened in Oklahoma City, JD Cash happens upon the "holy grail" that unlocks the mystery of why Janet Reno orchestrated first-degree murder charges --ONLY-- against Timothy McVeigh and Terry Nichols, when scores of eyewitnesses and mountains of evidence pointed to accomplices.

At the root of this mystery are sensitive government documents detailing the results of a scheme of questionable legality that was hatched during the presidential administration of Bill Clinton. Directed by Larry Potts -- the disgraced assistant director of the FBI who oversaw the massacre of civilians at Ruby Ridge and Waco -- the plan encouraged agents in the FBI and the BATF to use foreign intelligence services and foreign military officers to infiltrate terrorist cells in this country. But once "injected" into the terrorist underground, at least one of these foreign agents did far more than just monitor the "enemy" -- he created, armed and trained them! The results of the plan -- 168 casualties in Oklahoma City and more elsewhere!!

Patriots' Day includes the receipts and purchase orders where an agent of the BATF acquired the key component necessary to build an explosive device, then had it turned over to a terrorist the Bureau considered one of the most violent and unpredictable in the nation. And the foolhardiness did not stop there.

Patriots' Day reveals an incredible plan by the Secret Service that extracted a terrorist from prison so he could return to his gang. Then, once back together these skilled revolutionaries established a far-flung terrorist network of ex-military men and skinheads that set-out across the nation and successfully robbed 22 banks to finance a reign of terror - a reign that included Special Forces dropout and former armored car driver, Timothy McVeigh.

As additional evidence of this Machiavellian madness, Patriots' Day publishes the sworn admissions of Jennifer McVeigh to the FBI, where she "comes clean" about her role laundering money from bank heists her brother was involved in, and much more.

And as one of only a tiny number of journalists to interview Tim McVeigh -- JD Cash produces McVeigh's hand-drawn picture of the "super-bomb." You'll see for yourself the bomber's actual notes explaining how the device was made -- even how the barrels of explosives were specially arranged inside the Ryder truck to achieve maximum "killing power."

Equally incredible, Patriots' Day discloses the government documents that reveal the heartbreaking proof that top members of the Justice Department stepped in only weeks before the Oklahoma City attack and successfully blocked the arrest of a key player in McVeigh's network -- an arrest that should have stopped the other conspirators in their tracks.

Central to this Byzantine plot, Patriots' Day delves into the exploits of the son of one of Germany's most influential political families.

While an officer-candidate in Germany, Andreas Strassmeir received extensive training in the use of high-performance weapons, explosives, and the practice of espionage from one of Germany's finest military academies. Once armed with all this, Strassmeir began making regular pilgrimages to the United States -- still an officer in the West German military. In Manassas, Virginia a retired army colonel that Strassmeir claimed was, "An old CIA buddy of my fathers," provided the necessary introductions this young lieutenant needed in Washington DC. Then with bona fides provided by a Houston lawyer with a number of very important KKK and Aryan Nation clients, "Andi the German" was destined to become the neo-Nazi "movements" most respected and feared paramilitary trainer in America.

A key ingredient in the scheme included Strassmeir establishing himself at Elohim City -- a Christian Identity compound in the sprawling hills that straddle the Oklahoma-Arkansas border.

Here religious leaders practice polygamy, dabble in wife-swapping -- even tolerate child molesting. But of real interest to the government is the fact that Elohim City lies at the crossroads of the "White Power" movement. It is through their doors that pass the most violent and virulent revolutionary leaders in the country. And from the pulpit of their church -- murder in the name of the white race is preached, freely!

Enjoying this clandestine 1,000 acre compound to shroud his activities, government documents and eyewitness accounts record that Strassmeir recruited and provided "specialized training" to some of the deadliest "skinheads" in America -- including Timothy McVeigh. But by the spring of 1995, these outrageous activities would become the focus of the attractive daughter of one of Tulsa's wealthiest and most socially prominent families.

Youthful, seductive and a penchant for living life on the edge, Carol Howe was a former debutante who traded the country club lifestyle for a "Confidential Informants" contract with the BATF. It had taken months for Howe to work herself inside Strassmeir's terrorist camp. But once there, she was able to provide evidence to her "handlers" of a plot to bomb federal installations in Oklahoma. Howe even gave them a key date for the action -- April 19, 1995,....Patriots' Day!!!

The date was very significant. First, militia groups across the nation recognize it as the anniversary of American colonist's taking up arms against the British. Not only that, this year would mark the second anniversary of the bloody Waco conflagration. But while the Elomites flew a replica of the Branch Davidian's flag inside the church, their sympathy was not with the Davidians, whom they considered nothing more than a vile and unholy community of blacks and race mixers. What REALLY had the Elomites in a brewing frenzy over the Davidian issue was fear of similar treatment from the BATF and FBI when rumors of their own illegal weapons bunkers, leaked out. Weapons that, "Andi the German" had been bringing in by the truck-full. So as the days ticked down, Elohim City's religious "gurus" took to the pulpit to remind the troops at daily "meeting" that they must act by April 19th or be wiped out as the Davidians had!!

Easily the most surreal phenomena associated with this date, though, was that this year also marked the ten-year anniversary of an FBI raid on another Christian Identity compound -- one over in Arkansas that formerly enjoyed close ties with Elohim City leaders. And at 9:00 pm., April 19, 1995 the execution of Elohim City's patriot martyr, Richard "Wayne" Snell -- a revolutionary leader and convicted murderer from that same Arkansas compound -- was to be carried out.

Tulsa BATF agents knew that Wayne Snell had family living at Elohim City. In the church hangs his picture -- the only one allowed there. And from time-to-time the children of Elohim City sit under that picture, mesmerized, while the "elders" recount Snell's feats -- feats that included a plot to bomb the Murrah federal building, back in the 80's. But before the bombing could be carried out, Snell would rob and kill a pawn broker he thought was a Jew and later gun-down a black Arkansas Highway patrolman that pulled him over.

Howe even explained to her BATF "handler" that Snell was receiving regular prison visits from Pastor Millar -- the group's charismatic leader. What she didn't know, though, was that in the days leading up to the execution, Arkansas prison guards were reporting veiled threats coming from Snell -- threats that included predictions of a bombing that would occur in retaliation for his own death!

With this mounting evidence, Tulsa ATF agents put a plan into motion to arrest Strassmeir. But in early March those plans are blunted by members of the Justice Department in Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Washington DC. Thereafter, of course, Carol Howe, and her incendiary information would have to be buried by the government -- and buried very-very deep. And what happens after the author finds Carol Howe -- will shock every freedom loving American!!!

The incredible facts contained in Patriots' Day do not rely just on eyewitness accounts and government documents to tear away the veils of secrecy surrounding the fantastic truth. The library of resources include photo-clips taken from a security camera that was running in a Tulsa strip club a week before the bombing. You'll actually see the stripper as she reports a man in the club who is bragging that, "After April, 19, 1995, YOU WILL NEVER FORGET ME!!"

Numerous women, later, came forward to validate the statements made on the videotape. They told the author, and the FBI, that it was, indeed, McVeigh doing the bragging. But they also picked two others out of photo lineups -- men that they vividly recalled sitting with McVeigh in the club that night. Those men were Andreas Strassmeir and his Elohim City roommate, Mike Brescia, aka John Doe #2.

Patriots' Day even includes stunning evidence that a special FBI team assigned to the OKBOMB case was preparing to nab Strassmeir just as he crossed the Mexican border -- but escaped with the aid of Germany's elite counter-espionage team, GSG- 9. Then, once safely back in his parent's plush Berlin flat, other documentation establishes that Andreas Carl Strassmeir remained completely "untouchable" to American authorities in spite of the mounting evidence of his complicity in a variety of crimes -- including the gravest of our time.

Were Patriots' Day a book of fiction, it would be a best-selling novel -- and we would all be much safer. But it is evidence of this nation's most brutal mass-murder and official cover-up. Therefore, if we are ever to control the spread of domestic terrorism in our country we will have to control those that profit most from it.
